Subject: MCC Product/Process Change Notification Policy

Dear valued Micro Commercial Components (MCC) Customers:

MCC's PCN process was developed to be compliant to the JEDEC standard(JESD46), Customer Notification of Product/Process Changes by Semiconductor Suppliers. All customers of record are notified of major changes and provided with a minimum of 90 days notification prior to implementation of the change.

Customers requiring samples or additional data to evaluate a change should contact MCC within 30 days of the date of notification. Unnecessary delays in requesting data or samples may limit MCC's ability to provide a continuous supply of product. MCC will have samples of the most common products available at the time a PCN is issued. For various reasons, it is not always possible to have samples available for every product type impacted by the change. We encourage customers to evaluate the impact of a change based on the samples that are available.

Customers who require a more detailed evaluation to qualify the impact of an announced change are encouraged to complete their evaluation within the 90 day PCN notification period. Customers should work with their local MCC sales representative to place orders for sufficient quantities of unchanged product to support their manufacturing needs if any such evaluation will require more than 90 calendar days.
